

awaiting an opportunity to take a last look at the Holy Father.

Overcast skies, a light rain and a chilling atmosphere apparently had not dampened the ardor of the visitors. They came on foot, in carriages, street cars, omnibuses and automobiles.

Several thousand troops, made up of carabinieri, infantry and royal guards, lined the entrance to facilitate the movement of the multitude and preserve order. Their presence was scarcely necessary, because the great streams of the faithful who had waited in line were so impressed by the solemnity of the occasion that they were exceptionally calm.

Among the vast concourse which pressed forward at the right entrance to the church, leading directly past the Chapel of the Holy Sacrament, in which the Pope's body rests, were groups of monks, priests and Sisters of Charity in sombre raiment, some of them weeping and some reverently praying.

The former Pontiff's body, clad in crimson robes, rests on a catafalque only about a yard from the immense iron grates at the entrance of Chapel Noble.

The pontificate of Pope Benedict's death was registered at the city's bureau of deaths to-day. It reads: "The undersigned physician hereby states that at 5 o'clock A. M. Jan. 22 His Holiness Pope Benedict XV., Giacomo della Chiesa, expired following an attack of broncho-pneumonia brought on by influenza. (Signed) "DR. RAFFAELE BATTISTINI."

O'CONNELL STARTS TOROPE TO-MORROW

With Dougherty in West Indies, Boston Cardinal Will Cast Only American Vote.

BOSTON, Jan. 22.—The plans for Cardinal O'Connell's voyage to Rome to participate in the election of the papal successor to Benedict XV. were announced to-day. With his official party, consisting of Mr. M. J. Spillane, the Rev. R. J. Haberlin, Chancellor, and Dr. John R. Slattery, a layman, the Cardinal will sail to-morrow from New York for Naples on the steamship President Wilson.

He will have only eight days to reach Rome before the conclave opens but will be admitted upon his arrival if the new Pontiff has not been chosen.

An Cardinal Dougherty of Philadelphia is in the West Indies, for several days at least, Cardinal O'Connell will be the only American with a voice and vote in the election of the new head of the Roman Catholic church.

The Cardinal went to New York by motor with some of the members of his party and was there to-day.

GASPARRI ASSUMES FUNCTIONS OF POPE

Neither He Nor Merry del Val Likely, However, to Succeed Benedict.

ROME, Jan. 22.—Until the election of a new Pope, executive powers at the Vatican will be assumed by Benedict's Secretary of State, Cardinal Gasparri. To him has been assigned the plenipotentiary ring for sealing correspondence and the seal for Papal bulls.

The dominating influence at the forthcoming conclave of sixty-one Cardinals will probably be Cardinal Merry del Val, the Spanish intrinsigant heir of Pius X's policy, and Cardinal Gasparri. But neither is likely to be elected Pope.

JAPAN TO GET OUT OF SIBERIA LATER

Her Arms Delegation Disclaims Any Designs on Russian Territory.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 23 (Associated Press).—A statement declaring that Japan had no territorial designs in Russia and giving assurance that Japanese troops would be withdrawn as soon as a stable Government should be established there was made to-day by Baron Shidehara of the Japanese delegation at the meeting of the Far Eastern Committee.

The Japanese disclaimer of any Russian territorial ambitions were said to include Saghalien as well as other portions of Siberia.

It appeared to be the prevailing opinion that the naval treaty would be presented in final form at a plenary session this week.

As one means of giving effect to its declaration last week in favor of reduction of the Chinese Army, the Arms Conference is considering another resolution looking to prohibition of the importation of arms into China.

IF SHE MARRIES AGAIN, SPANK HER, DAD'S TOLD

Bride Advised to Have at Least a Two Weeks' Courtship.

(Special to The Evening World.) WHITE PLAINS, Jan. 23.—"If your daughter ever gets married again without your consent you spank her good," was the direction of Supreme Court Justice Seeger to Paul Dimont, father of Mrs. Marie Stevens, who was granted an annulment to-day from her husband, William Charles Stevens of Port Chester.

The young man, who said that she was fifteen years old when she was married on Dec. 16, 1920. She said she gave her age as nineteen, and when asked why, replied: "My husband's mother put me up to do it. She told me what to say."

Mrs. Stevens testified she had only known the defendant a week and a half at the time of the marriage. "Better take a couple of weeks next time; think it over before you get married," Judge Seeger advised.

N. Y. TO DUPLICATE VATICAN SERVICES AT POPE'S FUNERAL

Requiem Will Be Chanted in Every Church Located in This Diocese.

MASS FOR CHILDREN

Death of Pontiff Announced From All Pulpits in the Greater City.

The Archdiocese of New York will mourn with the rest of the world for Pope Benedict XV. In every church there will be requiem masses and communion services for the children in memory of the dead Pontiff.

The funeral exercises in Rome will be duplicated with every possible detail in St. Patrick's Cathedral.

Archbishop Patrick J. Hayes, when he received official notification of the Pope's death, immediately began preparing the mourning services. He will to-day issue a pastoral letter requesting the special services. He orders that the prayer on the death of the Pope be recited at each mass, and the laity are urged to special prayer.

Up to the receipt of the official notification, prayers for the recovery of the Pontiff were still being said, and it was not until the 10 o'clock mass at the Cathedral that the prayer on the death of the Pope was substituted and his demise announced from the altar.

The prayer on the death of the Pope—"Pro defuncto summo pontifice oratio"—is brief. It reads:

"Oh, God, by whose inscrutable appointment Thy servant Benedict XV. was numbered among Thy chief Bishops, grant, we beseech Thee, that he who was the vicar of Thine only begotten Son on earth may receive a place among Thy holy Pontiffs who have entered into everlasting blessedness."

The Cathedral service on Tuesday of next week will be timed to that of the ceremonies in Rome. In front of the high altar a catafalque duplicating that upon which the body of the Pope will lie in St. Peter's will be placed, and the Pontifical mass of requiem will probably be celebrated by the Archbishop himself. He will be assisted by five Bishops to give the absolutions, and it is expected that fully 1,000 priests will attend. On the catafalque will be placed the urn and crossed keys of the Papal office and the coat of arms of Benedict XV.

The announcement of the Pope's death was made in St. Patrick's Cathedral by the Rev. Henry Hammer, who preached the sermon at the 11 o'clock mass. The celebrant of the mass was the Rev. John M. J. Quinn, assisted by the Revs. Patrick Daly and Bernard McQuade.

BLOND SOULMATE REASON GARLAND ACCEPTED BEQUEST

dim. But when such an event takes place each will be free to go on loving some one else that may suit him or her better.

That his love for his wife might be rekindled he admits is possible but highly improbable. He says he has made suitable financial arrangements for his wife and children. This he thinks discharges his responsibility.

This twenty-five-year-old renouncer of wealth and wife, undoubtedly states his faith in the institution of marriage is shaken. Yes, more than that—it's gone. It may be all right for those who believe in it, but he doesn't.

According to quoted statements of Miss Conrad, she entered the life of Garland and his wife more than a year ago—at about the time, at least, that he spent his $1,000,000 inheritance. From what the girl says it would appear that Mrs. Garland was not long in ignorance of the existence of a rival.

As for Garland, now that the truth has come out, he admits the influence of Miss Conrad as calmly as he had previously denied that there was another woman in the case. He is quoted as confirming Miss Conrad's statements that he and his wife and Miss Conrad several times discussed the plan of both women sharing the Garland home. There is nothing to show that Mrs. Garland ever agreed to consider the proposition, but from what Garland and Miss Conrad are said to have admitted she fought for her rights as a wife and a mother until she became convinced that it would be impossible to maintain them.

The trouble with Mrs. Garland appears to be that she does not understand. Miss Conrad understands. She knows that Charles Garland is irresistibly drawn to freedom. He feels that life is just one experience after another, and he should be allowed to pick his own experiences—if they promise to be pleasant. Miss Conrad is said to have told her friends that Garland still loves his wife and would return to her to-morrow if she would abandon her archaic belief that a man should be satisfied with one wife at a time.

UNITED ERIN SEEN IN COLLINS-CRAIG PLANS AGREED ON

Yielding of Ulster Forecast in Boycott and Boundary Understanding.

LONDON, Jan. 23.—The agreement reached between Michael Collins, representing the Irish Provisional Government, and Sir James Craig, the Ulster leader, is considered to forecast a shadowy early union of the whole of Ireland, probably on a federal basis.

In the last six months of 1921 the receipts of the Port Authority of Belfast showed a falling off of nearly £2,500,000, compared with the preceding six months, while in the same period the Dublin port receipts showed an increase of £1,250,000. This was not wholly due to the southern boycott, but to the transference of trade from Belfast to Dublin because of disorder in Belfast.

It is proposed to constitute a new body instead of the Council of Ireland, as proposed under the Government of Ireland Act of 1920, and, as that act has to be amended anyway next session, the new body can be provided for in it so as to bring it in line with the treaty clause. As to an alteration in the constitution of the Boundary Commission, official drafting experts hold that it can be done under the existing treaty clause which is vague in terms and can be interpreted to permit substitution of the new body. As both North and South Ireland favor these changes, no opposition is likely to be offered them even by the die-hards in Parliament. If the Northern Cabinet are unanimous it can be carried.

Competent authorities have expressed the opinion that if the Boundary Commission as proposed in the treaty conducted its inquiries on a basis of the six northeast counties would lose nearly half their present area, and Craig's Government, knowing that, hopes to get better terms from the new Boundary Commission. In consideration of which they probably accepted the clause providing for the return and gradual re-employment of expelled Catholic workmen which will be the bitterest pill for Orangemen to swallow. The whole pact creates a highly favorable impression here.

Conferences between the Irish Committee of the British Cabinet and the Ministers of the Irish Provisional Government over details concerning the assumption of power by the Provisional regime in Ireland, pending the organization of the Irish Free State Government under the Anglo-Irish Treaty, were held yesterday and to-day.

Winston Churchill presided. The Irish representatives were Michael Collins, Eamon J. Duggan and Kevin O'Higgins. Mr. Collins returned to Ireland last night, but the conferences are being continued with his Ministerial colleagues.

BELFAST, Jan. 23.—News of the raising of the boycott by the Irish Free State against Ulster caused a rush of commercial travellers to-day to various railway stations, on route to various points in South Ireland, anxious to resume the business which the boycott had checked.

Former General Sessions Judge Morris Koenig, of assigned counsel to Boddy, who pleaded not guilty for his client, moved for a postponement of the trial on two grounds—one that he had not had sufficient time in which to prepare his case, and the other that the authorities, instead of adding, had obstructed his attempts to gain useful information.

He said he had learned that relatives of Boddy's mother had been placed in insane asylums in Maryland and New Jersey and wanted time to investigate. Also he stated that the names of witnesses in the office of Probation Officer Allison, to whom Boddy had reported the day of the shootings, had been refused him.

District Attorney Banton, in opposing, stated that he had offered to summon by telephone the asylum authorities with their records, and that the office of his office to assist the defense did not go to the point of disclosing the names of material witnesses, all of whom would be called by the people.

Justice Wasservogel denied the motion and the impelling of the jury was begun.

Frank Whaley, the Negro who, on Jan. 19, shot and killed Patrolman Metz with the latter's revolver in the West 123d Street Station, was arraigned before Judge McIntyre in General Sessions.

Ex-Judge Leonard A. Snitkin, of assigned counsel, stated to the court that he had not been able to obtain a sane story from the defendant and asked that a commission be appointed to inquire into his sanity. Judge McIntyre refused, until a physician examine Whaley and report to the court. The case was adjourned until Thursday so that such an examination and report could be made.

WORLD CONGRESS OF IRISH BEGINS SESSION IN PARIS

Deprecates "Vindictiveness of Great Britain in Retaining Prisoners."

PARIS, Jan. 23 (Associated Press).—Resolutions of condolence over the death of Pope Benedict were passed by the World Congress of the Irish Race immediately upon its assembling here to-day.

Taking up the questions before it, the Congress considered and passed a resolution deprecating "the vindictiveness of Great Britain in retaining Irish prisoners in British jails."

The delegates pledged themselves to support any line of action the people of Ireland might decide upon to bring about the release of prisoners in England and North Ireland.

PARIS, Jan. 23 (United Press).—At the World Congress of the Irish Race the organization of an Irish world association was begun. Eamon De Valera, who headed a delegation sent by the Provisional Government of Southern Ireland, was named as chief organizer.

He declared he would strive to form a "permanent association, the object of which would be to assist in obtaining further freedom for Ireland."

A majority of the 100 delegates present from eighteen countries were of the "die-hard" type, appointed before the defeat of De Valera, and they expressed belief that the new organization would be De Valera's weapon with which he would continue to fight against the Irish Treaty with Great Britain. There was a strong association of a valuable medium for the work of establishing a free state in Ireland was carried on.

DR. LORENZ IN STAPLETON

Dr. Adolf Lorenz is to-day in Stapleton, Staten Island, where he is to examine seventy-five patients at the Health Department office, No. 214 Broadway.

CROWDS STARTLED BY LEAP TO DEATH ON SUBWAY TRACKS

Wild Confusion on Elevated Section at 125th Street Over Suicide High in Air.

A man believed to be S. Hamilton of No. 55 West 125th Street, jumped in front of a southbound Broadway subway train at the elevated station at 125th Street to-day and was cut to pieces. The platforms of the station and the streets below became scenes of wild confusion until after the body was taken to the West 125d Street Station.

A note scrawled in pencil on an envelope found in a coat pocket of the man gave incoherent directions that "C. Jones, Sexton," should be notified and Dr. B. and Mr. Barry should be told that the writer "couldn't stand it any longer" and wished them to care for "his dear sister."

A letter from the Rev. Dr. Walter D. Buchanan of the Broadway Presbyterian Church and the address of the church indicated that the message was meant for the pastor. The note carried twice the address, No. 55 West 125th Street.

The Broadway subway service was suspended for forty-one minutes from noon while firemen assisted the police in removing the body from the elevated structure.

The motorman of the train was James McConnell, of No. 142 West 225th Street, who was motorman of the train which last Wednesday killed Abraham S. August, cashier of Suto & Co. when he fell in front of a train entering the West 72d Street station.

FIVE JURORS CHOSEN AS BODDY MURDER TRIAL IS OPENED

Frank Aronow, of his counsel, leaned to him once and asked "Does that man suit you?" Boddy, with some impatience, replied "Don't bother me with such things. You are the people to do this."

The wife of the defendant asked that she be permitted to sit with him, but upon objection by Mr. Banton she was refused and took her seat in the body of the court room.

A great crowd gathered in the hope of entering the court room, and the stairways and corridors were so jammed that the reserves of the Elizabeth Street Station were called to hold the inquisitive throng in bounds.

Former General Sessions Judge Morris Koenig, of assigned counsel to Boddy, who pleaded not guilty for his client, moved for a postponement of the trial on two grounds—one that he had not had sufficient time in which to prepare his case, and the other that the authorities, instead of adding, had obstructed his attempts to gain useful information.

MISS KATHERINE BIGGS.

New York Girl Will First Take an Art Course in Italy.

Dr. and Mrs. Hermann M. Biggs of No. 29 West 56th Street have just announced the engagement of their daughter, Katherine Biggs, to Roscoe McKinney of No. 251 State Street, Albany, N. Y.

Miss Biggs was graduated from Miss Spence's School of this city and also from Vassar with the class of '20. She is a member of the Junior League. Dr. Biggs is State Commissioner of Health for New York, a member of the faculty of New York University and one of the directors of the Rockefeller Institute.

Mr. McKinney, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward N. McKinney, was graduated from Harvard in 1915. He is now a member of the steel firm of James McKinney & Son, Albany.

On Feb. 15 Miss Biggs will sail for the Mediterranean to study art for a few months in Italy. After her return the wedding will be celebrated in the Brick Presbyterian Church at Fifth Avenue and 57th Street some time in the late autumn.

T. J. M'CORMICK, OUSTED AS WARDEN OF SING SING, DEAD

Official Glynn Removed for Sullivan Favors Stricken in Yonkers Home.

Thomas J. McCormick, who served for a brief period in 1914 as warden of Sing Sing Prison, died at 11:45 o'clock last night at his home, No. 140 North Broadway, Yonkers, from complications resulting from hardening of the arteries. He had been ill for more than a year.

Mr. McCormick was born in Ohio and reared in this city. He attended school in the old Fourth Ward. In 1890, he settled in Yonkers, where he engaged in the heating and ventilating contracting business and entered politics. In 1892, he married Margaret C. Nugent and she and three children survive him.

James J. Clancy was forced out of the wardenship of Sing Sing in June, 1914, by political pressure and Mr. McCormick was appointed by Gov. Glynn to succeed him. At that time, David A. Sullivan, who had been President of the Mechanics & Traders Bank of Manhattan, the failure of which carried down the Union Bank of Brooklyn, was a convict in Sing Sing, serving a term growing out of conviction for irregularities in his banking operations.

Mr. McCormick immediately instituted methods of prison management that made him popular with the convicts. For the first time in eighty-nine years he allowed prison inmates to eat their evening meal in the mess hall. He released them from their cells from 9 o'clock to 4:30 o'clock on Sundays and allowed them to roam the prison grounds at will.

In October, 1914, District Attorney Crosey of Brooklyn charged that David A. Sullivan had purchased an automobile which he had presented to Warden McCormick; that McCormick, sometimes driving the car and sometimes allowing Sullivan to drive it, had visited New York and places in Westchester with Sullivan and that Sullivan had been allowed to transact business in New York and in the prison which was inimical to the interests of the depositors of the Union Bank.

Gov. Glynn appointed Stephen C. Baldwin a special commissioner to investigate the charges. Mr. Baldwin found they were well founded and Mr. McCormick was removed on Oct. 30. Subsequently, he served as Superintendent of the Yonkers Water Bureau.

LIBASCI GOES TO TRIAL AS SLAYER OF GARBE

This Is Case in Which Gussie Humann Was Acquitted.

Joseph Libasci, twenty, of No. 76 Troutman Street Brooklyn, was placed on trial in the Queens Supreme Court to-day for the murder of Harry Garbe, twenty, who was shot on the night of Oct. 27 on Woodhaven Boulevard near Old South Road. This is the murder charge for which Gussie Humann was recently tried and acquitted. The charge against her was that she had been the victim to the spot where he was killed.

Garbe, who lived at No. 1415 Chester Avenue, Woodhaven, died in the hospital at Jamaica several days after the shooting. Two jurors were selected, John Schade, a bank clerk living in 111th Street, Richmond Hill, and Charles Bidwell, a salesman of Ridgewood.

Josephine Libasci, sister of the defendant, was in court. Gussie Humann was not.

Harry Rice, twenty, of No. 46 Starr Street, Brooklyn, was arraigned on a charge of homicide, discharged and brought into the Supreme Court as a material witness against Libasci. He is said to have been urged by someone to "throw away" until after the Libasci trial.

WOMAN BURGLAR CAUGHT BY TENANT ON ROOF AT NIGHT

Has a Long Record, Police Say —Is the Mother of Six Children.

Mrs. Pauline Niehter, said by the police to have several aliases including Beckie Fischer, Beckie Goldstein, Mary Watson, Dorothy Shur, and Mary Lieberman, thirty-six years old, was arrested early to-day in Brooklyn by Patrolman Thomas Christie and Detective Patrick Knowles. Jacob Fischer, who lives on the top floor at No. 194 Rodney Street, Brooklyn, said that he had caught the woman walking on the roof.

She told him she was looking for a family named Moskowitz. He took her by force into his apartment, where her screams attracted forty other tenants, largely in their nightclothes. Niehter had been on the lookout for burglars, he said, since his apartment was entered last August and $3,000 worth of valuable stolen.

The other tenants were also on edge for burglars, following the entry of the apartment of Mrs. Jacob Klaubner, on the top floor next to Fischer's, last Saturday. The burglars took $1,500 worth of valuables from her.

The police said that two pairs of trousers stolen from the apartment of Joseph Sandel, No. 412 Bedford Avenue, were found on the roof at No. 194 Rodney Street. Eighty dollars was also stolen from Sandel. Burglars also entered the apartment of Michael Hannis at No. 412 Bedford Avenue and took $5 out of his trousers.

When arraigned to-day before Magistrate Geismar in the Bridge Plaza Court, Niehter was dressed in an old brown coat, and her hair was disheveled. She showed no emotion, but insisted she was looking for the Moskowitz family. She said she had never been arrested before, but the police said that she had been arrested five times previously in 1913 on a charge of grand larceny, receiving a suspended sentence; in 1915, for burglary, receiving another suspended sentence; in 1918, for grand larceny, receiving a third suspended sentence; in 1920, on a charge of burglary, for which she was discharged; and in 1920 on a charge of burglary reduced to petty larceny, when she again received a suspended sentence. The first four arrests were in Manhattan, the fifth in Brooklyn.

Edward Garver, Niehter's counsel, told the Magistrate that she is the mother of six children. She was held in $2,000 bail for hearing Friday.

ACTRESS MARY MOORE MAY LEAVE HOSPITAL

Recovery of Young Woman Who Was Ailed by Lorenz.

After a convalescence of more than eight weeks following an operation for broken vertebrae and multiple fracture of the skull, Mary Moore, actress, is looking forward to her dismissal from the Broad Street Hospital, which her physicians announced to-day was probable.

Her case gained wide prominence because her recovery, long thought impossible, is now a fact. Dr. Lorenz, Vienna bone specialist, suggested a method of treatment which aided in the recovery.
